[64 FR 72419, Dec. 27, 1999, as amended at 67 FR 21534, Apr. 30, 2002]

25.001 General.

(a) The Buy American Act-

(1) Restricts the purchase of supplies, that are not domestic end products, for use within the United States. A foreign end product may be purchased if the contracting officer determines that the price of the lowest domestic offer is unreasonable or if another exception applies (see Subpart 25.1); and

(2) Requires, with some exceptions, the use of only domestic construction materials in contracts for construction in the United States (see Subpart 25.2).

(b) The restrictions in the Buy American Act are not applicable in acquisitions subject to certain trade agreements (see Subpart 25.4). In these acquisitions, end products and construction materials from certain countries receive nondiscriminatory treatment in evaluation with domestic offers. Generally, the dollar value of the acquisition determines which of the trade agreements applies. Exceptions to the applicability of the trade agreements are described in Subpart 25.4.

(c) The test to determine the country of origin for an end product under the trade agreements is different from the test to determine the country of origin for an end product under the Buy American Act (see the various country 'end product' definitions in 25.003). The Buy American Act uses a two-part test to define a "domestic end product" (manufacture in the United States and a formula based on cost of domestic components). Under the trade agreements, the test to determine country ''substantial origin is formation" (i.e., transforming an article into a new and different article of commerce, with a name, character, or use distinct from the original article).

(d) On April 22, 1992, the President made a determination under section 305 of the Trade Agreements Act to impose sanctions against some European Union countries for discriminating against U.S. products and services (see Subpart 25.6).
